

148476 - Is it permissible for men to wear watches made of gold?

the question

1. I heard that there is a scholarly opinion that it is permissible to wear gold watches on the basis that they are not really jewellery, rather they are like tools or gadgets. Is there such an opinion? Is it trustworthy?
2. I want to become a watchmaker. Is it permissible for me to put together watches that are made of gold?
3. Will it be permissible for me to repair watches made of gold?.

Detailed answer

Praise be to Allah.

Firstly:

It is not permissible for men to wear anything made of gold, whether it is a watch, a ring or anything else.

That is because of the report narrated by Abu Dawood (4057), al-Nasaa'i (5144) and Ibn Maajah (3595) from 'Ali ibn Abi Taalib (may Allah be pleased with him), according to which the Prophet (blessings and peace of Allah be upon him) took a piece of silk in his right hand and some gold in his left, then he said: "These two are haraam for the men of my ummah." Classed as saheeh by al-Albaani in Saheeh Abi Dawood.

Al-Nawawi (may Allah have mercy on him) said in Sharh Muslim (14/32):

With regard to gold rings, they are haraam for men according to scholarly consensus. The same applies if they are part gold and part silver. Our companions said: If the top of the ring is gold or if it is lightly plated with gold, it is haraam, because of the general meaning of the hadeeth concerning silk and gold, "These two are haraam for the males of my ummah and halaal for the females." End quote.

The scholars of the Standing Committee for Issuing Fatwas said:

If the watch or its band are made of gold, it is not permissible for men to wear it. If it is not made of gold, then it is permissible for men to wear it. End quote.

Fataawa al-Lajnah al-Daa'imah, 24/63

Shaykh Ibn 'Uthaymeen (may Allah have mercy on him) said:

There is nothing wrong with gold plated watches for women, but for men they are haraam, because the Prophet (blessings and peace of Allah be upon him) forbade gold to the males of his ummah. End quote.

Majmoo' Fataawa wa Rasaa'il Ibn 'Uthaymeen, 11/62

But if the watch is made of precious stones, not gold, it is permissible for men to wear it, so long as it is not women's jewellery and does not resemble such, and so long as keeping it is not extravagance.

The scholars of the Standing Committee for Issuing Fatwas said:

Wearing rings is permissible for men if they are made of silver or precious stones, not gold, because of the saheeh report from the Prophet (blessings and peace of Allah be upon him), that he wore a ring of silver. Agreed upon. And it is not permissible for men to wear gold rings or to wear any kind of women's jewellery. End quote.

Secondly:

With regard to making gold watches, if they are made for women, it is permissible, but if they are made for men, it is haraam, because that comes under the heading of helping the sinner in his sin, and approving of it, and Allah says (interpretation of the meaning):

“Help you one another in Al-Birr and At-Taqwa (virtue, righteousness and piety); but do not help one another in sin and transgression. And fear Allaah. Verily, Allaah is Severe in punishment”

[al-Maa'idah 5:2].

The same ruling applies to repairing watches made of gold. If it is known or thought most likely that the one who will wear it is a woman, it is permissible to repair them. But if it is known or thought most likely that the one who will wear it is a man, then it is not permissible. The basic principle concerning all of that is that it is not permissible to disobey Allah or to help a sinner in disobeying Allah.

And Allah knows best.
